Additional information provided by Prof. David Sonenshein:

Seventh Circuit case: U.S. v. Gomez, 763 F.3d 845 (2104).

Third Circuit cases: U.S. V. Smith, 725 F.3d 340 (2013) and US v. Sampson, 980 F. 2d 883 (1982).

Update - The Second Circuit case referred to is U.S. v. Sampson, 385 F.3d 183 (2004) which does not mention that the 404(b) offer cannot pass through a propensity inference, but rather stands for the requirement that intent must actually be contested.
